COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Three small tarring jobs were done last week and the unusually warm weather was ideal for the work. The Town Road Improvement projects on the Flat Road and Chapman Hill were penetrated and the basketball court at the Crescent Park School was tarred. It is unusual to get good tarring weather at this time of year but there were four perfect tarring days last week.

A small amount of bulldozing was done on Bird Hill and a thin layer of gravel was applied. Although the road is in poor condition, the road will have to be kept open all winter for use by permanent residents. The Appraisal Associates are in town and they will be next week also. They have started the job of appraising the residences in town. The mills and commercial property and selected farms have been revalued and the residential property will be revalued this year and next year.

The bids for the cutting of the Dutch Elm Diseased trees are nearly ready and will be out the last of the week. It might seem to be a simple process to get a price for cutting down a specified number of trees. I never dreamed of the number of areas that had to be covered and the number of specifications and details that must be explained. It is essential that all bidders submit a price on the same amount of work and it is important that they perform the work as required by the contract. I hope that the specifications are tight enough to insure a proper job but I also hope that the specifications are not so cumbersome that it will be unnecessary costly for the town.

Michael Houlihan

Jimmy Davis from the conservatory in Bangor and Marilyn Smith from Dexter are expected at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davis over this week end.

OBSERVES 90th BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Emma Van Den Kerkhof observed her 90th birthday Sept. 24 at her Elm Street home. She received many lovely cards and gifts, and wishes to thank her friends for making her day so enjoyable.

ART EXHIBITION AT GOULD ACADEMY

The Western Maine Art Group will hold an exhibition at the Bingham Auditorium during the coming week end. The exhibit, held in conjunction with Gould Academy Parents' Day, will consist of about 60 paintings by members of the group. The public is cordially invited to see this outstanding display of local talent.

The group has been in existence for several years, putting their work on display at Portland, Lewiston, Norway-South Paris and an annual exhibit at the Oxford County Fair.

Another endeavor of the group has been a revolving exhibition at the Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway, where patients and visitors alike are cheered by names and places familiar to them.

It is the intention of the Western Maine Art Group to continue to produce exhibits of this high level as well as to give the serious artist an opportunity to show his work. The exhibit this Saturday and Sunday will give the Bethel area residents an opportunity to enjoy this cultural program. The Bingham Auditorium will be opening at the following times: Saturday, 10:00 a. m. - 7:00 p. m. Sunday, 1:00 p. m. - 5:00 p. m.

OXFORD CO. FARMERS BUSY WITH CONSERVATION JOBS

Cooperators of Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District are in the midst of a very busy and productive season. Dry weather over the past few years has intensified the need for farm ponds and other types of water storage.

Farmers installing ponds up to this time are: John Pike and Morse Orchards in Waterford; Robert Hastings of Bethel; Gerald Bessey of Buckfield; Robert Gammon of Sumner; Richard Andrews of North Fryeburg and two ponds designed for irrigating truck garden crops, have been constructed by Edmund Smith of Bethel.

Edward Travis of Paris is also building a large pond for fire prevention in improved woodland. This is being done as a special project in cooperation with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service of the USDA.

Dry weather has not entirely eliminated the need for farm drainage and Martin Thurston, West Paris; Sherwood Knightly, Norway; Trundy Brothers, Hebron; Ladd Farms, Rumford; Harold Thurston, Jr. and Tom McSherry, Fryeburg; Arvo Naimi, Waterford; James Young, Buckfield have built or are building open drains and waterways.

The installations for this year include: Clarence Conant, Hebron; John McKee, Jr., Paris and Tom McSherry of Fryeburg.

Interest in fish pond stocking is increasing. Twelve three acre ponds were stocked this past spring and requests are being considered for next year's eligible cooperators. Fish stocking is done every other year. To date, approximately 87 acres of cropland has been smoothed. Much of this is in the Fryeburg area.

A large acreage of winter rye for cover crops and residue from corn and snap beans is being used to build organic matter in the soil on fields where cash crops are grown intensively. Much more work remains to be finished along these lines before the freezing weather.
